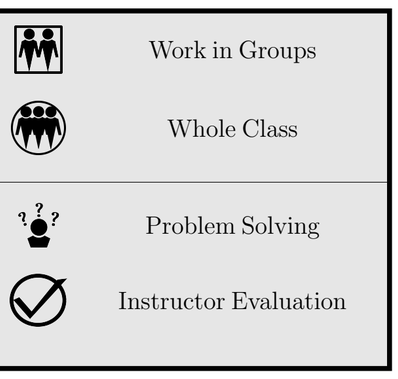
The Amazing Ethics Race

By J Stephenson, R Guttman, T Cinelli, M Hicks

Out of Class

In Class (Instructor)

In Class (Students)



Begin Here.

Find locations around campus to serve as stations and prepare appropriate clues for students to follow to each station.

Distribute copies of challenges and an answer sheet to instructors at each station.

Divide students into teams of 6-8 and assign the teams to the blue or pink circuit.

The students begin at Station 1 - receive their passports, view video and answer questions.

Check the students answers, when correct sign off on their passports and issue them the next clue for their circuit.

Each group solves a riddle or clue and proceeds to their next station.

The instructor at the next station provides a task.

The group works through the station's task and submit their answers.

Check the students answers, when correct sign off on their passports and issue them the next clue for their circuit.

The process repeats through all stations until they return to the start.

As teams return their passports and attendance are checked. The first team to finish wins.

Teams that arrive early may receive a final case study.

The whole class ends with a pledge.