

Cloning of the Human Insulin Gene

By Edward Awad

Description:

In this single-class activity, students will learn how to clone the human insulin gene into bacteria using the tools of recombinant DNA technology through a peer-instruction case study. Students will learn about experiments in molecular biology and the tools used in recombinant DNA technology. See a full description here.

